"Time" To Understand

Progression towards goodness in an experience-event, can be from the perspective from either a positive or negative process. Think about it from your own past negative becoming a positive referencing a truth from your own experience or experiences.

With God being the center of creation, creation's path is always moving forward in a positive direction. Call it evolution.
When a negative event is dealt with, taking the negative and expanding on the negative, with the mind drawing and promoting deeper into the negative, the negative growth stops for the "time being".
A stagnancy due to the lack of understanding from one's consciousness. The stunting of growth is preventing the soul from the negative experience in learning and growing from the experience.
Then "in time", the negative becomes a past thought and unless there is a reflection on how it led to a positive position in one's life, no growth is experienced.
That's not to say negativity is a positive thing, it's saying it's part of the process that is a building block of free will.
Because there is no time or space outside of this awareness in this flesh creation, time is a construct from within the mind. It simply means the soul has yet to understand its full truths.
When the mind, let's say in a prayer for healing, or a prayer to simply manifest a positive, it should be believed is already done.
What prevents the belief of the prayer becoming reality is when the senses (usually sight), do not see the fulfillment of the prayer. The recognition is in that the prayer has not worked.
If the conscious mind actually believed the prayer was answered, the soul would see it as it being instantly fulfilled, and is simply waiting for it to be seen.
The complexity comes from how a prayer is understood from faith and trust knowing that God has answered the prayer and the factor from in the construct of time, breaks down the belief system which again is faith and trust from the lack of understanding. God has answered the prayer, the soul just doesn't believe it because it is not instantly seen.
How much thought is given to a prayer from the "truth in understanding" and what is to be learned from the experience, positive or negative, that the prayer is directed too? Another words, do you really understand what you are praying about and for?

Another way of looking at is seeing it from God's perspective. He is not in space or time. There is no past, no future. Everything is in the present state, with eternity progressing (key word progressing), through and individuals eternal life experiences. Therefore, the experience is always in the present state where linear time does not exist.
The healing or prayer is instantaneous. Knowing that is in truth because of God's love for his creation. This is because his creation is from within his self, there is no reason to believe a healing or a positive progression in an event would not happen because he is love and his love, God himself never changes as scriptures state.
The misunderstanding is from the flesh's lack of understanding from the mind and the flesh's distortion and confusion of truths keeping the soul in bondage with no help from anyone or anything but from one's self. How well is that working for you?

When man has to judge what God has already judged; when man lives from his own god-self, where then does God actually fit in?
When man does not trust that in all the freedom of souls doing what they love, whether it be in goodness or in evils, is allowed by God, or there would simply be another God, (big g) and the experience would not exist.
Is there is only one God as scriptures state? And Satan his self, a spiritual being thought that from his little god position, felt he could become a (big G) God.

Satan's representations of negativity are represented from within the little god that is spoken about in Gen 3:5 when the flesh was made manifest, from God's creation, with God's purpose as scriptures so state.

Pro 3:5
Trust in the Lord with all thine heart, and lean not on thine own understanding.

Pro 20:24
Man's goings are of the Lord; how can a man then understand his own way?

Eph 5:27
Wherefore be ye not unwise, but understanding what the will of the Lord is.

When it is said "it will happen in God's time", God's time is now.

MJI (LightWorker)